PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION.

SULABHA SAMACHAR,
October 12th, 1878.

THE Sulabha Samáchar, of the 12th October, is gratified to notice that Government has created a new office—that of fourth class Moonsif. One or two barristers have been obliged to seek admission into this class for want of more promising employment. With many, a visit to England simply results in making them sahibs. The reduction in the number of first class Moonsifs, owing to the creation of a new class, will injure the prospects of the first class men. Unlike the practice that obtains in the subordinate executive service in the matter of acting appointments, any temporary vacancy in the ranks of the first class Moonsifs will, it is said, be filled by a member of the fourth, and not of the second, class. Considering that the Moonsifs are extremely hard worked, to deprive them of temporary promotions does not seem fair.

A new class of Moonsifs created.

SULABHA SAMACHAR.

2. We make the following extract from an article in the same paper headed, "Our duty towards the ruling race."

Duty towards the ruling race.

We observe with regret that, with the lapse of time, the relation between rulers and people, both educated and uneducated, is becoming one of increasing bitterness. Whosoever the fault may be, the result is exceedingly injurious. Both parties are to blame; the shortcomings of the people depend greatly on the conduct of the rulers. All this apart, should we not stick to a just and impartial course? Should we give way to excitement and increase the estrangement, or ought we to try and promote good feeling between the rulers and the ruled? Our young men, even those still studying in our schools and colleges, agitate political questions. Let them hold meetings for the good of the country, edit newspapers, and make memorials; but let them, at the same time, bestow a little thought on the maintenance of peace in the country. While doing our best to maintain our rights intact, to give publicity to the wants and grievances under which the people may labour, and protest against any law or the acts of any officer of Government which may occasion injustice or oppression, we should always bear in mind that the English are our teachers, protectors, guardians, and best friends. While doing our duty to the country, we should gratefully do our duty to the sovereign. The present, however, is the most unfavourable time for the performance of this difficult task. The heart should be perfectly sound and guided by fixed principles. There should be firmness, but not rashness.
